

THE 2017 TRAINERS

(The trainers are listed below in the order that they will speak.)

(Monday am) IAIN GUEST is the Executive Director of The Advocacy Project. Iain has been a reporter (Geneva - based correspondent for the London - based Guardian and International Herald Tribune); an author; a television anchorman (BBC); and a UN spokesperson Cambodia (1992) and Haiti (2004). He is currently an adjunct professor at Georgetown's School of Foreign Service, where he teaches human rights.

(Monday lunch) JENNIFER ADACH is a communicator and content creator, and has spent much of her career working in the DC nonprofit world. She has successfully placed stories in major news outlets, developed social media strategies, and created digital campaigns. In her spare time, she co-leads DC UL Backpacking and oversees the group's social media accounts. Jen also co-authored AMC's Best Day Hikes in the Shenandoah Valley. You can find her tweeting about content marketing at @jenadach.

(Monday pm) SARAH CRAVEN is a policy advocate and attorney with experience in global health and human rights. She currently serves as the Director of the Washington Office of the United Nations Population Fund. Prior to her work at UNFPA, she held positions at the U.S. Department of State and on the legislative staff to U.S. Senators Tim Wirth and Spark Matsunaga. She served as policy advisor to CEDPA during the 1994 International Conference on Population and the 1995

Fourth World Conference on Women in Beijing, China. She holds a B.A. from Macalester College, a M.Phil from Cambridge University (UK) and a J.D. from Georgetown University Law Center where she was a Public Interest Law Scholar. In 2010, she was named one of Macalester College's Distinguished Citizens.

(Monday pm) KAREN DELANEY, a Brazilian national, graduated from The University of California, Santa Barbara with a BA degree – Major in Global Studies and Minor in History. Her work with The Advocacy Project started in 2015 when she interned as a Development Assistant. Now her responsibilities include administration, fundraising, and human resources. Karen also coordinates the fellowship program and supervises the interns in the DC office. Whist at UCSB Karen worked part-time for three years at the International Students’ Office dealing with immigration matters. Also while at UCSB she was an active member of the United Students Against Sweatshops (USAS) organization, as well as a research assistant for the Global Studies Department. Karen’s research on Corporate Social Responsibility in the Global South has been published by her University.

(Tuesday am) GREGORY WALSH is a documentary filmmaker and video journalist from Annapolis, MD. He has worked for numerous nonprofits and educational institutions in the US and abroad. Gregory lived in India from 2012 to 2013, volunteering with the NGOs Video Volunteers and Parivartan Kendra. In india he also produced and directed a short documentary entitled A New Path which premiered at the 2015 United Nations Association Film Festival and won the Youth Vision award. More recently, Gregory served as the shipboard videographer on the Spring 2015 Semester at Sea voyage.

(Tuesday lunch) AMY RICHARDS is a Multimedia Specialist at the Gelardin New Media Center on Georgetown's main campus. In her position at Gelardin, she currently manages all social media platforms, teaches workshops on video production and editing, and promotes and curates the Gelardin Showcase. She holds a Bachelor of Arts degree in filmmaking and is currently pursuing a graduate degree at the McCourt School of Public Policy.

(Tuesday pm) HOLLY KOCH is a M.A. candidate in Georgetown's Communication, Culture and Technology (CCT) program pursuing a career in documentary filmmaking on the subjects of human rights and women's empowerment. At Georgetown, she helps run the GreenUP initiative, Car Barn Labs, Media Fest, and curates Georgetown Forum’s web content. Her portfolio can be found at hollykoch.com.

(Wednesday am) EMMA HERSH supports the more than 3,000 nonprofits in the GlobalGiving community by training, running academies, developing tools, offering direct consultations, and writing communications. Before she became a GlobalGiver, she led the VVLead Fellowship Program at Vital Voices Global Partnership, consulted for a nonprofit economic development corporation, served two members of the San Antonio City Council, and field-organized for a number of local, state and national campaigns. Emma earned her B.A. from Trinity University (Texas) and M.P.A. from New York University. Off hours, you're likely to find Emma spending time with her family in the garden, exploring new places, or enjoying sports (she loves them all!).

(Thursday am) LOUISA BOYARSKI is the Assistant Director of Georgetown University's Center for Public & Nonprofit Leadership (CPNL) and Assistant Research Professor at the McCourt School of Public Policy. Dr. Boyarski frequently conducts workshops and gives keynote addresses on a variety of NGO management and leadership topics to international delegations. She has conducted in-country trainings in Colombia, Panama, China and Mongolia. She also provides workshops on civic engagement in the Bureau of Near East Affairs' Student Leaders Program and has co-taught an undergraduate course on Philanthropy and Social Change. Prior to working at CPNL, Dr. Boyarski was the Executive Director of a D.C. based nonprofit working on global warming prevention with Arctic indigenous people. □□ Dr. Boyarski received her Ph.D. in Comparative Government from Georgetown University, with a research focus on the role of nonprofit coalitions in public policy advocacy.

(Thursday lunch) MATT TUMAN has been with Clements for six years. Additionally, he has over 4 years of sales experience. Matt started in Clements' operations team before joining the personal lines sales team. He now works in the commercial lines as a producer. Matt holds licenses to sell both life & health and property & casualty insurance policies.

(Thursday pm) CARSON COLLIER completed her B.S. in Anthropology at Virginia Commonwealth University in Richmond, Virginia. During her time at VCU she had the opportunity to work for the Virtual Curation Lab, where she was able to digitize artifacts and other remains for educational use. Carson is currently studying to get her Masters in Communications, Culture and Technology with a focus on 3D Printing and Semiotics at Georgetown University.

(Friday am) ASH KOSIEWICZ: For more than a decade, Ash has told stories that connect people emotionally through shared vulnerability and a hope for a better future. From the Peruvian mountains and the rice farms of Ecuador to the Texas-Mexico border and the District of Columbia, he has brought to life the stories of immigrants, human rights activists, and small business owners fighting for their livelihoods, beliefs, and dreams. As Content Producer at World Food Program USA, Ash Kosiewicz creates blogs, podcasts, and long-form features to inspire action to help end global hunger. Before coming to WFP USA, Ash spearheaded donor communications in support of domestic micro finance efforts as Director of Communications with the Accion U.S. Network. Since 2009, he has also worked in a variety of roles with the DC-based Latino Economic Development Center. Ash earned a Bachelor of Journalism and a Bachelor of Arts in Government from the University of Texas at Austin and a Master of Arts in Latin American Studies from the Edmund A. Walsh School of Foreign Service at Georgetown University.

(Friday lunch) LOREA RUSSELL has over a decade of experience working in humanitarian assistance and disaster relief. Currently a Humanitarian Assistance Technical Specialist for Global Communities, her career has included time both in the field and in HQ offices working with different NGOs and contractors. She has designed and written proposals resulting in approximately $120 million in funding for humanitarian assistance and development programming from public and private sector donors. Lorea has a MSFS from Georgetown University, where she focused on International Conflict Management and earned a Refugees and Humanitarian Emergencies Certificate from ISIM, and a B.S. in Political Science and B.A. in French from Santa Clara University.